Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 474 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.9in. Excerpt from The Penny Protestant Operative, Vol. 4: Under the Direction of the Protestant Association To what can our attention be so well drawn as to a revision of the past year; to mark what effect events have had on the interest of that cause and those principles to which our efforts are devoted; and to a consideration by each one of our own friends and readers, of his own individual position, with reference to the change which, sooner or later, awaits him, and every child of Adam. Who can say how far distant may be the period, when time shall be no more to them? It is well to hold converse with our past hours; to muse on all Gods wondrous works, and those most wonderful, the working of his Holy Spirit in the soul of man. Oh! How sublime is the contemplation which then unfolds itself to our view, when raised on the wings of Faith we soar above this visible diurnal sphere - hold communion with the Father of our spirits - enjoy a foretaste of heavenly blessedness - and catch a glimpse (though but a faint one) of those glories which shall be revealed. Then how passing human estimate and comprehension seem the unsearchable riches of Christ Jesus: how do we learn more to aspire after those treasures which the world can neither give nor take away how low and dim and vile, appear the pomp and pride and glory of this world! Then, as it were, placed upon an eminence from which the field of this worlds conflict is seen before us, we can estimate things by their relative importance. God and man - earth and heaven-time and...
