THE LATTER-DAY SAINTS MILLENNIAL STAR, VOL. 73: NOVEMBER 23, 1911 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 73: November 23, 1911 The man who wrote about half the New Testament, and who apparently received more abundant revelation than any other apostle, has bewildered the minds of thousands by certain obscure remarks concerning marriage, and also by certain strictures in regard to women, or, to be more correct, with reference to female members of the Church of Christ. His statements are cited in support of every view of Christian marriage that is extant to-day, ranging all the way from the utmost strictness and sanctity, down to the border-line of licentiousness - all shades of opinion seeming somehow or other to find a champion in St. Paul. There is one thing to be said in partial extenuation of this confusion, viz., that a mere reading of I. Cor. 7, as an isolated piece of literature, is undoubtedly calculated to give rise to the impression that Paul was not quite certain as to the correctness of his own views on some points, for no less than three times in this one chapter (verses 6, 12 and 25) does he disclaim Divine inspiration respecting his words. This consideration must be given due Weight ere we form an opinion as to St. Paul s indecision, Which traverses or contradicts some other revelation on the same matter which is more explicit.
