GENERAL GUIDE TO THE EXHIBITION HALLS OF THE AMERICAN MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY (CLASSIC REPRINT)

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 100 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.2in. Excerpt from General Guide to the Exhibition Halls of the American Museum of Natural History. It is the purpose of this Guide to call attention to the more important exhibits that the visitor will see as he passes through the halls. More detailed information regarding the specimens may be obtained from the labels or from the Guide Leaflets. It is frequently necessary to rearrange the exhibits in the halls in order to provide space for new material which is continually being received or to put into effect advanced ideas regarding methods of exhibition. In some instances therefore, the arrangement described is not wholly that in existence at the date of issue of the Guide, but rather what will be when certain installations now in progress are completed. This is true for the halls devoted to geology and invertebrate palontology and to some extent in the exhibit of the Indians of the Woodlands and in those of local mammals, mammals of the world and insects. The sergeants on each floor will always direct the visitor to any collection on the given floor. American Museum of Natural History, November, 1911. The halls are named according to the position they will have in the completed Museum building, which will consist of four long facades facing east, west, north and south respectively, each connected with the center of the quadrangle formed, by a wing extending between open courts. Thus the hall at the eastern end of the south facade (the only facade completed) becomes the southeast pavilion.
