Jorge Pinto Books, United States, 2009. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .On June 12, 2009, the contemporary art center Grand Arts in Kansas City inaugurated a retrospective of the artist Juvenal Merst. A day after the opening, a public panel discussion was held with the closest acquaintances and scholars of the artist's work. The visitors to this event became unsuspecting witnesses of a unique experiment that blurred the line between real life and theater, using the tools of drama and the conventions of academic presentations to provide a reflection about the art world's current state of mind in its various contradictions, its desires, and its conflicts. This edition includes the original text of the play along with an exhibition essay and audience commentary. Translating stilted art discourse into theater opens a rich vein of satire that Helguera deftly exploits.[.] Helguera's latest effort pulls back the curtain with a theatrical flourish to reveal our collusion - through vocabulary, sartorial choice, gesticulation or egotistical promotion of our hard-earned roles - with the chain of command. Lyra Kilston, Afterall Magazine A truly brilliant satire in the maximally ambitious form of a Gesamtkunstwerk incorporating every person and object in the space. David Cateforis, Professor of American, Modern and Contemporary art, University of Kansas Pablo Helguera is [.] a splendid liar, a first-class storyteller, a curious mind constantly in search of stories, a creator of parallel universes and impossible characters living in credible situations, which invariably probe our certainties, intuition, and knowledge [.] On this peculiar and distorted stage, time, space, myth, emotion, interpretation, and a voracious search for meaning create an intimate (slanted, idiosyncratic, devoted, and corrosive) portrait of that revered and wonderful freak show that we know as the art world.
